General Statement

A Law School was first established in Richmond College in 1870. After a somewhat uncertain existence, due to lack of money, the School received, in 1890, from the family of Mr. T. C. Williams, of Richmond, an endowment of $25,000. In recognition of this gift, the name of the School was changed to the T. C. Williams School of Law. Since 1890 there has been no interruption of work. At various times the School has received further generous gifts from members of the family of Mr. T. C. Williams. The endowment now amounts to $105,000, and additional subscriptions amounting to $103,000 have been received. The T. C. Williams School of Law is firmly established as an integral part of the University of Richmond. The degrees in law are conferred by the University of Richmond.

LOCATION

Since the close of the World War the Law School has occupied "Columbia," the original building of Richmond College. The location is on the old campus of Richmond College, at Lombardy and Grace Streets. In 1921 additional rooms were added, but the growth of the School induced the trustees to plan further building in 1924. A large wing fronting on Lombardy Street, and containing library, six lecture-rooms and necessary offices, was completed in September, 1924. The architecture is colonial and conforms in all respects to the original building. With this new building the Law School can accommodate in its classes about 250 students.

COURSES OF STUDY

For most of its history the T. C. Williams School of Law has been taught in evening hours. But the growth of the School and the development of legal education have made necessary certain important advances which are explained below.

Beginning in September, 1922, the School was organized with a Morning Division as well as an Evening Division. The Morning Division offers three years, and the Evening Division four years of work leading to the law degree. Regular attendance, satisfactory classroom recitations, and approved written examinations in all of the subjects of each class are required for graduation in either Division. No degree candidate is permitted to advance from one class to another without having successfully completed the work of the preceding class either in this School or the equivalent thereof in some other accredited law school.

In June, 1926, the Trustees voted that, beginning with the session of 1926-27, all requirements of the Association of American Law Schools and of the American Bar Association shall be in effect in this School.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS FOR DEGREE CANDIDATES

All applicants for admission must be at least eighteen years of age. Students applying for admission as candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Laws must present a certificate of graduation from a college or university of approved standing, or a transcript from the registrar of such institution showing fifteen college entrance units and the successful completion of at least two years of college work leading to a Bachelor's degree in a standard college.

ADVANCED STANDING

The adjustment of credit for law work completed in any other law school is determined by action of the law faculty after consideration of the facts in each case. Credit granted is always conditioned upon the successful completion of a year of successful work in this law school.

SPECIAL STUDENTS

A small number of persons twenty-three years of age or more who appear to be of unusual ability and promise, but who are unable to meet the full educational requirements as candidates for the law degree, may be admitted as special students by vote of the law faculty. The number admitted each year conforms to the recommendation of the American Bar Association. Application should be made in writing to the Secretary of the Law School on or before September 1, giving age, previous academic training and business experience, accompanied also by letters from two persons familiar with the applicant's character, ability and attainments. Special students are not eligible for the law degree and no work in the law school completed by a special student may thereafter be counted toward the law degree. Special students are subject to the same rules and regulations as other students.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION

The degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL. B.) is conferred upon regular students in the Morning Division who have completed three years of resident law work and have received credit in subjects amounting to seventy-two semester hours, including the required subjects. This degree is also conferred upon regular students in the Evening Division who have completed satisfactorily four years of resident law work and received credit for seventy-two semester hours, including the required subjects. Students who have been regularly admitted to advanced standing in either division must have been in residence at this school during the last two years of their study of law and must have completed satisfactorily at least thirty-six semester hours in this law school.

COMBINED ACADEMIC AND LAW DEGREE

Students in Richmond College, the college of arts and sciences of the University of Richmond, may so combine their work in that school with the work in the T. C. Williams School of Law as to receive in six years the two degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws. In the Evening School the time required would be seven years. Students who wish to make this arrangement must matriculate in the law school at the beginning of their fourth or senior year and must take such courses in the law school as may be assigned by the law faculty. Students who complete successfully their first year of assigned work in the law school will receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts and will then receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws upon the completion of two additional years in the Morning School. Students desiring to make this arrangement should confer with the Dean of Richmond College and the Secretary of the Law School before matriculation.

RULES OF ATTENDANCE AND SCHOLARSHIP

Attendance at all class exercises is required. Excuses for absences are not accepted. Students absent from more than 25 per cent of the recitations in any subject will not be permitted to take the examination.

A first-year student may not register for more than the required work of his division. The required work for the Morning Division is twenty-four semester hours, and for the Evening Division eighteen semester hours.

A student in the second or third year of the Morning Division may, in addition to the required work, register for subjects which he has previously taken, but the examinations on which he has failed to pass. These subjects may not exceed six semester hours in any session. A student in the second, third or fourth year of the Evening Division may, in addition to the required work, register for work on which he has been examined, but failed to pass, but not to exceed four semester hours in value.

A student who fails to gain credit on two-thirds of the work for which he has registered shall not be permitted to take in the following year more than the required work of the division in which he is registered, including the subjects on which he failed to pass. Students who fail to pass as much as 51 per cent of the work for which they are registered shall not be permitted to matriculate again in this law school except by special action of the faculty.

LIBRARY

The law library occupies a spacious hall in the law building. The library contains valuable collections of law books, acquired partly by gift and chiefly by purchase. The University adds by yearly accessions Reports from English, Federal and State courts and most of the current Law Reviews. The library includes a complete set of the National Reporter System. The library now contains more than 8,000 volumes, about 5,000 of which have been added during the past two years. These include the English Reprint and complete State Reports prior to the Reporter System of all the States but one. Also L. R. A. and A. L. R., the American Digest complete, Ruling Case Law, U. S. Code Annotated, besides several encyclopedias, bound sets of many periodicals, and many other valuable law books. A full set of English Law Reports has been purchased and is being imported during the present summer.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Those who are unsuccessful in some parts of a given year's work, or those who wish to lighten a regular session's work, or those (particularly in the Evening Division) who desire to complete the degree requirements in less than four regular sessions, or those who care only for some special branches of the law, will find it of advantage to enter the summer school.

Summer courses were first offered in 1921. In 1928 a course comprising two terms of seven weeks each will be offered. A bulletin covering the summer school is published each spring.

Attendance at one full summer session will be deemed equivalent to one semester's residence where eight or more semester hours have been taken during such session.

LITERARY SOCIETY

In 1922-23, the students of the Law School, headed by the Forenoon Division, organized the "Thomas Nelson Page Literary Society," for the purpose of fostering debating, public speaking, and interest in political and historical matters.
